Getting The New MTH School Ready

Workmen are making the final touches to the buildings of the new Mission To Haiti Preschool on the mission campus. The builders are making sure the work is done well. Marckendy the engineer designed these buildings. He is overseeing all the work. He is a Christian young man and a former sponsored child. Now, he works with partners in a construction firm. They are the generation of young people who are rebuilding Haiti.

The new solar well is complete and working great. In order to distribute fresh water to the new preschool, the well drillers built a 20 foot tower with a thousand-gallon tank. The two large solar panels make sure that the solar pump always keeps the tank full. As the new preschool gets started and more facilities are built, this well will supply fresh water for years to come. Jean and Pitterson, the two young men who drilled the well did a great job.

The new preschool facilities have three large classrooms and a pavillion for activities

Our plan is to launch the new preschool in September. We are now calculating the costs for the supplies, materials and furniture to start. Those figures should be ready soon.

We are also preparing to hire an administrator, teachers, helpers and cooks. The new preschool will have its own budget to operate.

Please keep the new preschool in prayer. We are hopeful and excited to see all that the Lord will do.

The Trade Fair Was A Great Success $800 Is Still Needed To Outfit The Beudet Kitchen

Pastor and Mrs. Cadet and the students who attended the Vocational School's first Trade Fair.

Thank you for giving to the Vocational School's Trade Fair. The purpose of the trade fair was to put on display the skills the students have learned and to show how their training is preparing them for the future. The event was also a great encouragement to students who are braving the current conditions in Haiti to remain active.

Thank you for helping re-supply the school kitchen at Beudet. They still need $800 to purchase everything they need.

Remember Mission To Haiti In Your Trust Or Will

Over the past few months, Mission To Haiti has received gifts from the estates of sponsors through their trusts and wills. Before their passing, these sponsors added Mission To Haiti as a beneficiary to their estates. These gifts were wonderful and helpful to the ministry in Haiti. We were not expecting them, but when they came, we were able to use them to complete projects and prepare for upcoming needs.

Including Mission To Haiti as a beneficiary to your estate is as easy as letting your estate planner know. Your estate gift will be a legacy of your faithfulness to the Haitian people and the work that God is doing in Haiti. Please let us know if you have any questions. Thank you.

Using Your General Gifts In Special Ways

Mrs. Leonard was robbed by a gang

Many of the offerings we receive are given under the category of "where most needed." Recently the mother of a sponsored girl was robbed of all her vendor merchandise. We gave her $300 to replace everything and used non-designated offerings to help her. Your general offerings are helping many.
